AFFIDAVIT OF GEORGE ORIN

GEORGE ORIN, on oath, states as follows:

1. I am an adult resident of Dolson Township, Clark County, Illinois, competent to make this affidavit on the basis of personal knowledge.
2. I am a member of Rural Clark and Edgar County Concerned Citizens (“RCECCC”), which is an Intervener in the above-referenced cause pending before the Illinois Commerce Commission. I am the de facto spokesperson for the group, and authorized to testify on its behalf.
3. All of the members of RCECCC live or own property on or immediately adjacent to the Alternate Route for the proposed power transmission line through Clark and Edgar Counties which is the subject of the proceeding brought by Ameren Transmission Company of Illinois (“ATXI”). All of us, with the exception of Ben and Abbie Furlong, own the land and improvements thereon. The Furlongs are lessees of the premises where they reside, and are planning to purchase the property. The following is a color-coded map which identifies the location of our properties on the Alternate Route:

4. The members of RCECCC oppose the Alternate Route, as the same has been identified through Clark and Edgar Counties, for the following reasons:

A. There are already three high-voltage power lines coming into and out of the Kansas Substation. Surely these power lines were developed with the foresight to meet the needs of current and future generations. Ameren already has all the engineering knowledge of these lines, experience working the lines, and the right of ways on which they are located.

[TESTIMONY STRIKEN PURSUANT TO ORDER ENTERED ON APRIL 24, 2013.]

B. As argued above, the proposed Alternative Route along the Clark-Edgar County line would be constructed in an area where there is no existing major power transmission line, which will also cause damage to current and future farming operations and quash plans for future developments in this area. The damage to existing farming operations and difficulty of farming around power lines is already well-documented. The farms on the Clark-Edgar County line would certainly be negatively affected. Besides farming, other economic interests of families in our group will also be adversely impacted. Interveners, Steve and Robin Trapp, will close the public business which they run out of their home, as they plan to move if the power line runs through their front yard. Interveners, Ben and Abbie Furlong, have plans to soon purchase the property they currently rent on the proposed Alternate Route in order to build an equestrian center for children, including those with disabilities. If the power line is constructed, the area would not be considered safe for children, bringing an end to the plans. Interveners, Justin and Angie Perry, have plans underway for a grass airstrip which is currently being reviewed by the Illinois Department of Transportation Division of Aeronautics and the FAA. This airstrip will not be completed if the power line is constructed across the flight path. These are just three of many examples of how the new proposed power line would negatively affect economic development on this route.

C. The proposed Alternative Route along the Clark-Edgar County line would also cause serious environmental destruction to native hardwood forests that have been protected by individual families because of their love of the land and their concern for the environment. Interveners, Kent and Janet Stark, and their family own woods close to and identical to Baber Woods, which is protected by the Nature Conservancy as a Nature Preserve. Since 1833 and for seven generations, the Stark family has been steadfast in protecting these woods, and has resisted numerous offers over the years to harvest the forest. The 150 foot wide clear cut path to accommodate the transmission line would destroy nearly 12 acres of native woodland. Likewise, the property of Interveners, Bruce and Tammy Trefz, is close to Rocky Branch Nature Preserve, and the Trefz family has also been protective of their native hardwood forests, including many trees that have been identified as over 125 years old. Serious consideration should be given to the fact that the existing power line routes have already had right-of-ways cleared and ready for use. It does not make sense to damage more woodland when a path already exists.

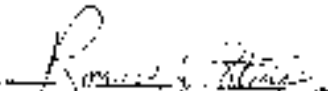

D. The five landowners in our group have been entrusted by their ancestors for a combined 500 or more years to take care of the property that has been passed down from generation to generation. Our heritage means a lot to us, as does our future. Each family hopes to keep their home and property for generations to come. We and our children live, breathe, and make memories under where the Alternate Route would be constructed, as did our ancestors for decades before us. This proposed route goes over our children's play areas, across our fishing ponds, above our horse riding trails, along our driveways, and through our farm fields and woods. There are obvious safety hazards that come along with these power lines that will bring a halt to our daily activities near them.

5. For all of these reasons, the members of RCECCC would oppose any plan which would use the Alternate Route proposed by AXTI the area where they reside in Clark and Edgar Counties, Illinois.
